WHEN MOTHER DIES

When mother dies it's different,
From all who've died before,
For mother's there to call us,
Across to the other shore.

We've never felt that others
Who have gone across the sea,
Could ever reach across that void,
To the world of you and me.

Death had been a mystery,
A fearful thing for all,
A place that we have never seen,
Like a world behind a wall.

So others have seemed gone from us,
Have seemed to disappear,
Into a world that we did not know,
A world of dread and fear.

But to make it safe for us to come,
Has mother gone ahead,
To show us where to find a road,
To follow when we're dead.

"I go that you may follow me"
Said Christ, God's only Son,
And mother has gone on ahead,
To show it can be done.

So though it's sad for us right now,
We're for the sorrow;
For now we know through our Lord
We may join her there tomorrow!
